

BAROLO LORENS 2016

Robert Parker 94
WINE ADVOCATE

Dedicated to his father, Lorenzo, Walter Lodali's 2016 Barolo Lorens is a perfumed and delicate wine with a pretty inner grace and balance. Its power and intensity grow steadily as the wine evolves and takes on more air in the glass. The slow, fluid movement of this barolo is its most beautiful trait, Otherwise, the aromas are classic and linked to the vintage. You get small-berry fruits with camphor ash, smoke, tar and licorice. The tannins are integrated, and there's a nice touch of dustiness on long finish. What a deserving tribute to Dad. Exactly 5,049 examples of this edition were made.

Reviewed by
Monica Larner

Drink Date
2023 - 2040

LODALI

Dal 1939

BAROLO

BRICCO AMBROGIO 2016

Robert Parker 93
WINE ADVOCATE

The Lodali 2016 Barolo Bricco Ambrogio opens to dry and pliant aromas of small berries, dusty earth and powdered licorice. The aromas are executed in small doses and tiny steps, building in intensity as the wine is given more time to open. I uncorked these samples the night before and kept them at 55 degrees Fahrenheit to taste. The Barolo Bricco Ambrogio is reticent, showing less of the flashy and fleshy fruit that you get in some of its more extracted peers. The wine also appears more accessible, and for that reason, I'm suggesting a near or medium-term drinking window. A mere 5.637 bottles were made..

Reviewed by
Monica Larner

Drink Date
2023 - 2040

LODALI

Dal 1939

BARBARESCO LORENS 2017

Robert Parker 92+
WINE ADVOCATE

The Lodali 2017 Barbaresco Lorens pours forth from the bottle with a pretty, dark crimson color and the wine does a nice job of capturing the ambient light. This Barbaresco takes a soft and supple approach, although you do taste a little extra tightness in terms of the tannins. A hot and dry vintage results in smaller berry size, typically. Despite the natural ripeness of the vintage, and the 15% alcohol content, the wine breathes elegance. Like the Barolo Lorens from this same estate, the wine is dedicated to its patriarch, Lorenzo. Precisely 4,967 bottles were made.

Reviewed by
Monica Larner

Drink Date
2022 - 2035

LODALI

Dal 1939

BARBARESCO

ROCCHIE DEI 7 FRATELLI 2017

Robert Parker 92
WINE ADVOCATE

The Lodali 2017 Barbaresco Rocche dei 7 Fratelli shows simple and classic lines, like an Italian automobile from the 1960s. I suppose the wine's name might evoke the classic Luchino Visconti 1960 film "Rocco e i suoi fratelli", or at least it does to my cinema-loving mind. The wine is silky and polished in texture with a delicate showing of small-berry fruit, raspberry, cola, tobacco and iron ore. The finish is bit dry and thin, and that could be a consequence of this warm vintage.

Production is 6.808 bottles.

Reviewed by
Monica Larner

Drink Date
2022 - 2035

LODALI

Dal 1939

BARBERA D'ALBA LORENS 2018

Robert Parker 89
WINE ADVOCATE

Streamlined and slender (or as much as you can expect from this darkly colored grape), the Lodali 2018 Barbaera d'Alba Lorens offers a refreshing and food-friendly personality. Shedding that usual heaviness and extraction, this expression puts the spotlight on the fruit, in its simplicity and purity. Plump cherry, dried raspberry and plum are given equal billing. Exactly 8,457 bottles were released in May 2020.

Reviewed by

Monica Larner

Drink Date

2020 - 2024

LODALI

Dal 1939